When shown an Associated Press dispatch to the effect that the presicent-elect favors an immediate provisional government for the Philippines, followed by absolute and complete independence within the next eight years, Judge Southworth, admitted that this sentiment was in line with the present policy of the new administration on taking office next March.

Judge Southworth, is an orator jof his activities in the late presidential campaign, he is returning to his post at Manila, greatly improved in health.

Mr. Southworth is also inclined to the opinion that a general and clean sweep in the Philippine official family is to follow shortly after the inauguration of President Wilson.

Already rumors are rife of resignations from several members of the Philippine Commission, now on vacation leave in the United States and in Europe. Judge Southworth, rather expected

In trying to deal with such a question, he says, we are on the boundary line of the intellect, where the canons of science fail us. Science denies all influence of subjective phenomena over physical processes. In the absence of the empirical fact, science would be bound to deny that a man could raise his arm by an act of volition; only "the phenomena of matter and force come within our intellectual range." Science is forced to lated in arrival through an accident to deny the soul, because its dealing the Japanese liner Shinyo Maru, on with physical facts and forces have which they journeyed to the States. | furnished it with no criteria by which While Judge Southworth remained to validate such a conception.
